California Design Firm Recognized For Prestigious Interactive Media Award

JV Media Design Wins at the 5th Annual Horizon Interactive Awards Competition

Indianapolis, IN USA – April 14, 2006 - The Horizon Interactive Awards, a leading international interactive media awards competition, announced the 2006 award winners. The fifth annual international competition recognized excellence in interactive media production among multi-media developers worldwide.

JV Media Design was recognized for their excellence in interactive media production with a Bronze award for the Paramount Park's Fearfest 2005 website in the Entertainment category.

"Awards always act to validate all the hard work that goes into creating a website, but the team truly did enjoy working on the Fearfest site." Says Creative Director, Sherry Holub.

The 2006 competition was the largest and most competitive to date, nearly double the size of the previous year. Hundreds of entries were received from 17 countries including: Australia, Canada, Croatia, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Italy, Malaysia, Indonesia, Netherlands, New Zealand, Portugal, Italy, Singapore, South Africa, United Kingdom, and Nearly all 50 US States. A panel of judges, consisting of various industry professionals with diverse backgrounds, evaluated 13 different categories. The 2006 winning entries showcase the best developed web sites, cd-roms, dvds, video, kiosks, online advertising video games and other interactive media.

"The Horizon Interactive Awards winners are at the top of their class. All of the winners this year exemplify the highest standard for interactive media development," said Mike Sauce, founder of the Horizon Interactive Awards. "It is truly amazing to see the level of creativity, craftsmanship and artistry on display among this year's winners. "

The Horizon Interactive Awards holds the annual competition in early spring of each year. For more information visit the Horizon Interactive Awards at www.horizoninteractiveawards.com.
