FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Award Winning Design Firm Relocates

JV Media Design is excited to be in new location in Roseburg, Oregon

Roseburg, OR – August 15, 2007 High-end design firm, JV Media Design has recently moved its offices from Costa Mesa, CA to Roseburg, OR (about 2 1/2 hours from Portland). “This was not something that we did overnight. We started planning the move 2 years ago when we realized 95% of our clients were not local to us”, said Creative Director, Sherry Holub. The business started in 1995 and it has grown to offer a wide range of services including web design, design for print, flash animation, marketing services, logos/corporate identity, 3D design/animation, sound design and more. Over the years the company not only survived the “dot com crash”, but had no need to advertise for the first 6 years due to the amount of satisfied client referrals. JVM has worked with clients as large as Paramount and Nike and as small as independent artists and “mom and pop” shops.

“We are committed to providing high-end design by staying on top of the latest technology, offering a ‘one-stop’ service, and taking a personal approach with each client. We’re really excited to be here in Oregon and we hope to be offering outstanding design services for years to come.”
